LIQUOR STOCK VANISHING TAX LESSENS

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24.—The hush that has been in the liquor business since the "great drought" brought into the treasury $129,000,000 in taxes this year, or about one-fourth of the government's total revenues in pre-war years, the internal revenue bureau announced today.

With the lid on tight, since the advent of the dry era such revenues are vanishing, officials said, and future taxes upon distilled spirits withdrawn from bonded warehouses for non-tax purposes, probably will not reach the twentieth of the present year's receipts.

Refined returns on whiskey taxes seem interesting groups of figures showing public demand prior to last year. Distilled spirits in the choicest bourbons and ryes, the famous brands of Scotch, contributed the heaviest percentage with 60,000. So-called fermented liquors $41,000,000. Brainers and whole-malt dealers paid $24,000,000.

Apparently a relatively small percentage of taxes was derived from the sale of stamps to cover exported products from the distilleries only $54,000,000.

Figures showed that the total 1920 revenues from intoxicants amounted to only 1.81 per cent of the revenues from all sources. In the pre-war days, however, liquor revenues made up nearly one-half of internal revenue receipts.

SENATOR KNOX DENIES REPORTS

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24.—One of the first acts of Senator Philander Knox, when he reached the Capitol today was to spike the report that he is already slated for the post of secretary of state in the cabinet of President-elect Harding.

"Nobody has any authority from me to speak about it," he declared when asked point blank if there is any truth in the widely circulated report of his being tentatively chosen for that position. "Anyone who says I have con-

OLIVE THOMAS' JEWELS AND CLOTHES TO BE SOLD AT AUCTION

Photographs show wraps, jewelry and toilet articles of the late Olive Thomas, stage and screen actress.

All the personal effects of Olive Thomas, the well known screen actress and former "Follies" girl, who recently died in Paris from mercurial poisoning, are to be sold at public auction in New York city. Jack Pickford, Miss Thomas' husband, recently returned to the coast and his studio activities after arriving in this country with his wife's body and tending to the funeral rites. The widower, however, has been so unnerved by the shock that he is postponing the making of his first pictures for his own company until some time after the first of the year. Not only are Miss Thomas' clothes to be auctioned off, but her jewelry and toilet articles as well. The photographs show Miss Mary Commerton, left, and Miss Helen Baleston trying on some of the wraps from the wardrobe of Miss Thomas and also some of her jewelry.

templated it, or have any reason to contemplate it, is speaking entirely without my authority."

BONDS MISSING

CHICAGO, Nov. 24.—Search was begun today for $100,000 in bonds, the property of Ambrose J. Small, the missing multi-millionaire theatrical magnate of Toronto. Dispatches received here from Portland, Ore., declare that John Doughty, Small's secretary, who was arrested there yesterday, has confessed that he took the bonds and that they are hidden in Chicago.

HIMELICK IS OUT OF RACE

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Nov. 23.—Nomination by L. N. Hines, state superintendent of public instruction, of E. A. Weldt, superintendent of industrial education of Illinois, to be director of vocational education for Indiana started a fight in the meeting of the state board of education here today. Names of several candidates were before the board, several members of which were absent.

Finally, by a vote of four to three, the board postponed action on the selection of a vocational director until the next meeting.

R. W. Himelick of Fort Wayne, is considered virtually eliminated as a prospect for the post.
